German Forces Drop Back From Banks of the Yser

Kaiser's Men Searching For New Road to Calais After Failure to Cut Through Allied Lines on Bloody Field of Flanders

RUSSIAN AND TURKISH FORCES MEET IN THEIR FIRST BATTLE

British Man-of-war Bombards Port and Compels Surrender—Turk Apology Receives Curt Reply of "Too Late" From Czar—Russian Advance into East Prussia Continues—Mohammedans Pledge Fealty to England—Turks to Fight Under German Officers.

By Associated Press.

Havre, France, November 3.—An official communication is given out by the Belgian general staff saying our advance forces which moved toward the Yser are finding everywhere signs of a precipitate retreat.

London, November 3.—The apology of the Turk for the assaults of his fleet on Russian ports on the Black Sea has not accomplished its purpose, but Russia and Great Britain have undertaken active military measures against her, and hostilities have begun on the Red Sea.

In France the troops of Emperor William, frustrated in their persistent endeavors to advance along the coast, are now seeking a route more to the south and the fighting in Flanders is going on with determination on the part of the allies and heavy onslaughts from the enemy.

A group of incidents show that Turkey's effort to hold aloof from the general warfare came too late. Constantinople reports Russian troops have attacked her frontier; fighting is reported between Russian and Turkish troops near Trebizond; a British cruiser has shelled and occupied the Turkish fortified town of Akabah, on the Red Sea in Arabia. It is announced in a news dispatch that Emperor Nicholas has ordered his Caucasian army to cross the frontier and attack the Turks. The Turkish ambassador has left the Russian capital. The Russian foreign minister has replied to the porte that negotiations are now impossible and an imperial manifesto issued in Petrograd says Russian confidence is firm that intervention of Turkey will only hasten the fatal issue to that empire and that Russia will now find a way to settle the Black Sea problem handed down to her by previous rulers.

Lord Kitchener, the British Secretary for War, was in Dunkirk Sunday night, doubtless for the purpose of supervising the operations of the allied forces. He crossed from England and was in conference with President Poincare of France and the prime minister of Belgium.

The Germans last Sunday, according to news dispatches made a supreme effort to capture Ypres.

Lives without number were sacrificed in an endeavor, which apparently resulted in failure, for today they are said to be concentrating their efforts at a point well to the south of this battle scarred locality. Emperor William, himself, was present, according to news dispatches at the latest attempt to capture this important position. German forces have left Bruges for Courtrai where the British hold the line. This is taken to indicate the selection of another way to Calais.

Basing its hope that the allies will be able to continue to hold back the German advance in the north, no matter how determined and furious it becomes, Paris is still optimistic as to the outcome in Flanders. President Poincare of France and King Albert of Belgium, have reviewed troops close to the line of battle in Flanders to an accompaniment of exploding shrapnel from the artillery of the enemy.

The White Star steamer Olympic, from New York, landed her passengers at Belfast this morning after being held up five days on the north coast of Ireland for fear of mines. The North Sea has been entirely closed to shipping. All vessels, just now, go through the English channel. "Americans and friendly aliens may not board steamers this coming Thursday at Queenstown. They must go instead to Liverpool. This may be an indication that the British authorities contemplate closing the southern entrance to the Irish Sea.

The German government is ready that the world at large should know how it is caring for its prisoners of war. American and other neutral consuls have been given facilities to visit the internment camps.

Mobilization is costing the Netherlands government $400,000 a day.

The Mohammedans of Beluchistan, in a meeting held at Quetta, India, have informed the British government that it can rely upon its fidelity.

Constantinople, via Amsterdam and London, November 3.—An official communication was given out in Constantinople today as follows: "According to official reports from the Caucasian frontier, Russian troops have attacked our frontier forces at several points but were compelled to retire. The Russians suffered losses through the energetic resistance of the Turkish troops.

London, November 3.—Russia has replied to Turkey's apology for the raid of her navy in the Black Sea with the fateful words "too late;" and in London it is thought likely that diplomatic pressure will prevent the war party among the Young Turks from dragging their country into the European imbroglio. The events of the past 12 hours show that the grand Vizier of Turkey has made every effort to conciliate the entente powers, but the influence of his partisans in the Turkish cabinet is not believed to be great enough to force the porte to meet the demands for reparation formulated in the Franco-British notes.

So far as Russia is concerned, a state of war with Turkey actually exists and the reply of the Russian foreign minister to the explanation of the grand vizier does not hold out, in the opinion of London, any hope for a peaceful outcome of the dispute.

The tumult of battles has rolled back from the Belgian coast and after the apparent failure of their fierce assaults on the English and Belgian lines around Ypres the Germans evidently are diverting their attacks toward a more southerly point. Much activity on the part of the German mobile columns is reported from Belgium and there is evidence that the invaders have not yet exhausted all the resources which are being brought to bear in the campaign to cut their way through to Calais.

The man first made his appearance at the W. H. Sheridan farm near Staunton, where Mr. Sheridan saw him leave a tenant house, and started to investigate. # ALCOHOL POISONS A SCORE

Vermont Druggist Rushed to Jail
For Safe Keeping.

TWELVE DEAD; OTHERS DYING

Concoction, Alleged to Have Been Purchased at Prisoner's Store, Reported to Be a Mixture of Wood Alcohol, Ether and Water—Seventy or More Said to Have Partaken Freely of the Dope.

Middlebury, Vt., Nov. 3.—Dr. H. D. Blisbee, the Bristol druggist arrested Sunday following the deaths of four men from drinking liquor said by the authorities to have been purchased at his store, was rushed to the county jail here by Sheriff Farr for safe keeping, Bristol townspeople being in an ugly mood because eight more died of the same cause. Three or four more are in a dangerous condition and are not expected to survive. Wood alcohol, mixed with ether and water, is said to have been the concoction manufactured by Blisbee and sold to about forty men Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday the following men died: James Tamablin, Frederick O'Brien and Samuel King of Bristol and Edward Wakefield of Warren. O'Brien told the physician who attended him that he purchased a supply of liquor at Blisbee's store. Monday the following men died, the symptoms being similar in all the cases: Ernest Dupre, Henry St. George, Cyrus Curry, Lester James, Patrick Welsh, Francis McBride and Wallace Hammock, all of Bristol, and Aldice Jackman of Lincoln. They range in ages from 24 to 70 years and most of them leave widows and families.

Dr. F. L. Bridges, who attended a number of the poisoned men, said the liquor comprised wood alcohol, ether and water.

Blisbee has been arrested and convicted twice within the past two years of illegal liquor selling. He formerly had a drug store here, and is also a practicing physician.

The little village of Bristol is panic-stricken, and the seventy or more who are said to have purchased whisky at the drug store in the last day or two are wondering "who next." Nearly every resident of the town has lost either a relative or a close friend and with deaths occurring hourly it is possible that a total of nearly 100 may pay the toll.

Bristol and the neighboring territory is supposed to be dry and has been without a license for a number of years.

Later—Two more victims of the liquor are dead.

CARRANZA IS DROPPED

Gutierrez Named Provisional
President of Mexico.

HOSTILITIES ABOUT TO BEGIN

Villa's Troops Moving South to Attack Carranza's Forces Camped Along the Railroad South of Aguascalientes—Zapata Also to Participate in the Conflict on Villa's Side—Carranza's Demands Ignored.

Torreón, Mexico, Nov. 3.—Carranza has been deposed by the Aguascalientes peace conference, and General Eulalio Gutierrez has been proclaimed provisional president.

Carranza has refused to yield to Gutierrez unless Generals Villa and Zapata first leave Mexico, and the armies of all these factions are moving troops for a war which will be between Carranza on one side and Villa and Zapata on the other. Villa's troops moved from the north, swarmed around Aguascalientes, hitherto regarded as neutral territory, and began moving south toward the Constitutionalists' troops, camped twenty miles south of the city, along the railroad leading to Queretaro. At the same time outposts of Carranza troops were reported as far west as Salinas, on the railroad from San Luis Potosi to Aguascalientes.

In the north Governor Maytorena's Sonora army is reported again moving to attack Naco and Aguas Prieta, border towns held by Constitutionalists troops under General Benjamin Hill, who has greatly strengthened his position by the addition of seven machine guns, several mountain cannon and two carloads of ammunition.

Telegrams from Aguascalientes explained the action of the conference in choosing General Eulalio Gutierrez as provisional president for only twenty days. It is desired to secure from General Zapata approval of the selection. The conference will then make its selection permanent. By that time the conference will probably have resolved itself into a national conference, barring the probability that all its members may be leading troops in warfare.

A dispatch from Mexico City transmitted to the conference contained an inquiry from General Carranza for an explanation of the motives which impelled the conference to accept his resignation without first insisting upon the removal of Generals Villa and Zapata from Mexico.

Both Villa and Carranza representatives claim the selection of General Gutierrez as a victory for their factions. As governor of the state of San Luis Potosi, appointed by Carranza, the Carranzistas claim that Gutierrez's selection is a decided victory for the forces of the first chief. The Villistas also claim Gutierrez as having been exceptionally friendly to Villa.

PROGRESS ALL LONG THE FRONT

Allies Have Better of Fighting
In Belgium and France.

Paris, Nov. 3.—From the North sea to Alsace the armies of Belgium, France and England are reported to have had the better of the hard fighting. The official reports say that the allies made progress all along the line and that the German effort slackened in the past twenty-four hours.

The hardest fighting has been between Dixmude and Ypres and southward in the regions of Lille and Arras. The Germans appear to have abandoned their plan of attacking west of Dixmude and to have concentrated strength west and south of Ypres, but the net result of two days' operations is said to be a stronger position by the allies defending the line in Belgium. The fighting in northern France had a similar result, the allies withstanding terrific attacks near Arras and to the south-east.

The fighting near the hinge of the battle line is again becoming of great importance. Along the Alsne, in the region between Soissons and Laon, the Germans appear to have reinforced their troops. The official reports state that the attack has been fruitless. Further progress is reported by the French at the east of the line. The Germans have been driven from the heights at Ban de Sapt, from which they shelled the town of St. Die.

ALCOHOL POISONS A SCORE

Vermont Druggist Rushed to Jail
For Safe Keeping.

TWELVE DEAD; OTHERS DYING

Concoction, Alleged to Have Been Purchased at Prisoner's Store, Reported to Be a Mixture of Wood Alcohol, Ether and Water—Seventy or More Said to Have Partaken Freely of the Dope.

Middlebury, Vt., Nov. 3.—Dr. H. D. Bisbee, the Bristol druggist arrested Sunday following the deaths of four men from drinking liquor said by the authorities to have been purchased at his store, was rushed to the county jail here by Sheriff Farr for safe keeping, Bristol townspeople being in an ugly mood because eight more died of the same cause. Three or four more are in a dangerous condition and are not expected to survive. Wood alcohol, mixed with ether and water, is said to have been the concoction manufactured by Bisbee and sold to about forty men Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday the following men died: James Tamablin, Frederick O'Brien and Samuel King of Bristol and Edward Wakefield of Warren. O'Brien told the physician who attended him that he purchased a supply of liquor at Bisbee's store. Monday the following men died, the symptoms being similar in all the cases: Ernest Dupre, Henry St. George, Cyrus Curry, Lester James, Patrick Welsh, Francis McBride and Wallace Hammock, all of Bristol, and Aldice Jackman of Lincoln. They range in ages from 24 to 70 years and most of them leave widows and families.

Dr. F. L. Bridges, who attended a number of the poisoned men, said the liquor comprised wood alcohol, ether and water.

Bisbee has been arrested and convicted twice within the past two years of illegal liquor selling. He formerly had a drug store here, and is also a practicing physician.

The little village of Bristol is panicked, and the seventy or more who are said to have purchased whiskey at the drug store in the last day or two are wondering "who next." Nearly every resident of the town has lost either a relative or a close friend and with deaths occurring hourly it is possible that a total of nearly 100 may pay the toll.

Bristol and the neighboring territory is supposed to be dry and has been without a license for a number of years.

Later—Two more victims of the liquor are dead.

The Emigration Question

That at the conclusion of the awful conflict now raging in Europe, the United States will be called upon to face the most serious problem regarding the admission of emigrants, seems to be generally conceded.

Hundreds of thousand, yes millions, of desolate people of all European nations will turn, in their utter despair from the ruins which will surround them on all sides and from the enormous war debt which will hang over them like a black pall during the life of generations yet unborn, to this great land of freedom and promise across the Atlantic.

For the peasant folks of Belgium, France, Germany, Austria and Russia, at the conclusion of this war the future will contain no promise of relief. Back to ruined homes, dissipated savings, no store of food, under a staggering war debt, is a prospect from which the poor of Europe will flee in terror. No matter who is ultimately declared the victor in the great conflict, no matter which nation is the gainer in territory or military prestige, the people will look into the future with despair and devoid of hope.

New provinces acquired will but add desolate people to the cares of an already over-burdened nation.

Far seeing statesmen are already planning the enactment of legislation which will guard this nation from the consequences of an exodus of poor people from Europe to these shores.

The problem of regulating immigration is a difficult one under the most favorable conditions—under the normal conditions which have existed for he past decade, but it will be immeasurably more difficult to solve under the conditions which will obtain at the close of the war.

Other lands too, recently opened to humanity, South Africa, Australia, South America and others will each receive their proportion of these poor people who are looking for a new land to begin life all over again under conditions different from those existing in Europe.

To the downtrodden people of Europe, however, America has long been the land of promise, and to America, they will instinctively turn for better conditions and a new life. The great stream of refugees will flow toward America and this nation must, before the avalanche is upon us, devise some way, if possible, to prevent harm to the prosperity of our own citizens and to maintain conditions which will guarantee relief to those who are admitted as citizens.

The problem is an enormous one, and our statesmen are doing well to take up its consideration before the necessity for an announcement of a settled policy is immediate.

Vesuvius Rumbles

To add to the terrors of mankind in Europe, Mt. Vesuvius, the great volcano near Naples is rumbling and threatening at any moment to belch forth death dealing fire and lava upon the abodes of the inhabitants in the valleys below and on the mountain sides of the great crater.

In 1906 the great volcano was in active eruption and at that time over five hundred people perished, property valued at twenty millions of dollars was destroyed and twenty thousand people rendered homeless.

Those figures totalling the destruction, under ordinary conditions, would be appalling, but in view of the great disaster of war with its tremendous consequences now sweeping Europe, they do not excite the senses benumbed by more gigantic horrors. We have read so much of loss of life and property since the outbreak of war that even the news that Mt. Vesuvius is in an active state of eruption, fails to arouse that great interest which it did heretofore.

Six years ago when the old volcano began to rumble and threaten, the world stood aghast with the horror of probable consequences. Today the imminence of another eruption is only mentioned casually in the news of the day.

So awful has been the destruction wrought by man and man-made agencies of death that nature's giant cannot rival it.

The comparison is a forceful illustration of the enormity of the disaster now sweeping Europe.

Scientists who make a life study of Mt. Vesuvius and keep in touch as nearly as possible with the moods and temper of the surly old monster, hope that the great internal fires which spring from the interior of the globe somewhere, will die down again, and that the volcano will not add its death-dealing and destructive power to that now being exerted by man in warfare, but they are fearful that an active eruption will come.

The heavy detonations in the interior of the volcano indicate that nature's artillery is moving upward toward the surface.

Will a retreat be sounded before the top of the crater is reached, is the question which hundreds of thousands of Italians who have so far escaped the horrors of war, are asking themselves.

Poetry For Today

THE CANDIDATE'S APPEAL.
I am the one and only "he"
(The signal mark of probity!)
To make the government perfection,
If you elect me next election.

For freedom from the slavish laws
That grind you down to degradation,
Just look at me and end forthwith
The present vile administration.

What if the present office holder
At last election vowed the same?
You must not class a saint like me
With one not worthy of the name.

Your present government is bad!
And everything that is, is wrong!
But vote for me and life will change
To one uninterrupted song!

Think not, to win, I would expose
Another's shameful villany!
But you should vote the right man in;
And no one else is right but Me!
—New York Sun.

BABYLON AND NINEVEH.

The Incident That Led Sir Henry Layard to Explore Their Ruins.

The first man to undertake extensive and important explorations among the ruins of Babylon and Nineveh was Sir Henry Layard. It was due to his friendship for a young man who had a great fear of sickness that he was led to begin what was to be his life work. Layard was educated in the law and started for Ceylon to practice his profession.

He was accompanied by another lad, who had a horror of the ocean, and Layard readily agreed when his companion suggested that they make the trip by land across Europe, Asia Minor, Persia and India. It was while on this journey that Layard was inspired with the ambition to delve among the ruins of the ancient cities of Asia.

"When I first beheld the mounds of Nineveh," he wrote, "a great longing came over me to learn what was hidden within them."

He yielded to the desire and largely at his own expense carried on these excavations at Babylon and Nineveh, which were chiefly responsible for the discovery of the lost records and relics of a people who lived 3,000 years ago. Many cities and palaces, including the palace of King Nebuchadnezzar, were unearthed by Layard, and the most valuable treasures in the British museum serve to commemorate his name and fame.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The gabby man is sure a bore.
His mouth should have a clutch,
For he could say a whole lot more
And not talk half as much.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

DEADLY SHRAPNEL.

Good "Man Killers," but Their Effectiveness Is Limited.

Shrapnel, so called after their inventor, the British General Shrapnel, are thin cases of tough steel containing a large number of bullets—in the British artillery 263 and in the French and German 300—with a small bursting charge at the base of the projectile.

The bursting charge breaks the thin steel case, when the bullets sweep forward with the velocity imparted to the projectile by the gun. Shrapnel are regarded as good "man killers," but they are quite ineffective against buildings, where shells are deadly. For the attack of field guns and buildings and for action against troops in trenches most armies employ howitzers, which are short, squat guns that toss their projectiles high in the air, high angle fire.

In the British army every division has fifty-four field guns and eighteen howitzers. These howitzers are of 4.5 inch caliber, firing a shell 4.5 inch in diameter and weighing thirty-five pounds. They have a range of 7,200 yards, which is 1,000 yards greater than the range of the British field gun.

The defect of the howitzer is that its shell is very heavy, and consequently much fewer rounds can be carried than with the field gun. There is no security that a single howitzer shell will do twice the damage of an ordinary field gun shell, though it weighs twice as much.

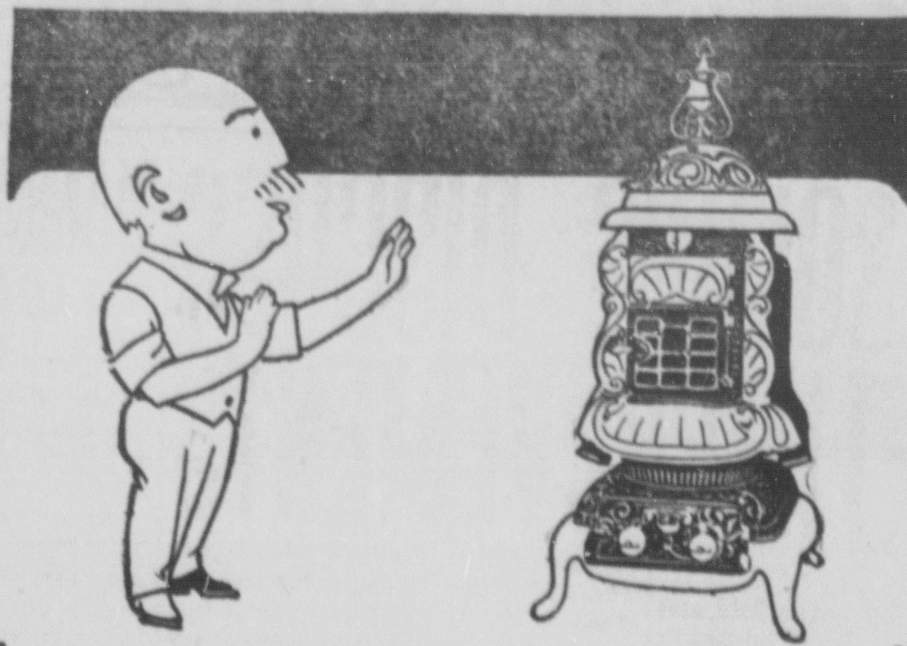

The French do not employ a howitzer in their field artillery. The Germans use a heavy pattern of six inch caliber, firing a shell of about ninety pounds, and a lighter pattern of 4.2 inch caliber.—New York Sun.

Hard to Kill Some Men.

Reports indicate it sometimes takes a lot to kill a modern soldier. Sergeant Fougere of France received eight bullet wounds, a broken arm and other injuries and, although shot in the calf, thigh and ankle, escaped being captured by Germans and limped ten miles to his regiment. Another French soldier received six bullet and three bayonet wounds and is recovering. The French war office estimates only two men are killed out of every 100 hit. The penetration is so clean one soldier did not know he had been hit for three hours, and another bullet went through two soldiers and lodged in a cavalryman's saddle.

The Farce.

Tapeworm.

To effectively cure a case of tapeworm, says a physician, the patient should fast an entire day, taking nothing but water. Prepare about 100 dried pumpkin seeds by picking out the meats. These may be pounded up, mashed, mixed with a little honey or eaten like any nut, but should be very thoroughly masticated. The morning after the fast eat the pumpkin seeds and remain quiet for three hours; then take from one to two ounces of castor oil, according to whether constipated or not. This treatment is harmless and, as a rule, is very successful. There is no harm in taking more of the seeds and more of the oil if one desires.

The Emigration Question

That at the conclusion of the awful conflict now raging in Europe, the United States will be called upon to face the most serious problem regarding the admission of emigrants, seems to be generally conceded.

Hundreds of thousand, yes millions, of desolate people of all European nations will turn, in their utter despair from the ruins which will surround them on all sides and from the enormous war debt which will hang over them like a black pall during the life of generations yet unborn, to this great land of freedom and promise across the Atlantic.

For the peasant folks of Belgium, France, Germany, Austria and Russia, at the conclusion of this war the future will contain no promise of relief. Back to ruined homes, dissipated savings, no store of food, under a staggering war debt, is a prospect from which the poor of Europe will flee in terror. No matter who is ultimately declared the victor in the great conflict, no matter which nation is the gainer in territory or military prestige, the people will look into the future with despair and devoid of hope.

New provinces acquired will but add desolate people to the cares of an already over-burdened nation.

Far seeing statesmen are already planning the enactment of legislation which will guard this nation from the consequences of an exodus of poor people from Europe to these shores.

The problem of regulating immigration is a difficult one under the most favorable conditions—under the normal conditions which have existed for he past decade, but it will be immeasurably more difficult to solve under the conditions which will obtain at the close of the war.

Other lands too, recently opened to humanity, South Africa, Australia, South America and others will each receive their proportion of these poor people who are looking for a new land to begin life all over again under conditions different from those existing in Europe.

To the downtrodden people of Europe, however, America has long been the land of promise, and to America, they will instinctively turn for better conditions and a new life. The great stream of refugees will flow toward America and this nation must, before the avalanche is upon us, devise some way, if possible, to prevent harm to the prosperity of our own citizens and to maintain conditions which will guarantee relief to those who are admitted as citizens.

The problem is an enormous one, and our statesmen are doing well to take up its consideration before the necessity for an announcement of a settled policy is immediate.

Vesuvius Rumbles

To add to the terrors of mankind in Europe, Mt. Vesuvius, the great volcano near Naples is rumbling and threatening at any moment to belch forth death dealing fire and lava upon the abodes of the inhabitants in the valleys below and on the mountain sides of the great crater.

In 1906 the great volcano was in active eruption and at that time over five hundred people perished, property valued at twenty millions of dollars was destroyed and twenty thousand people rendered homeless.

Those figures totalling the destruction, under ordinary conditions, would be appalling, but in view of the great disaster of war with its tremendous consequences now sweeping Europe, they do not excite the senses benumbed by more gigantic horrors. We have read so much of loss of life and property since the outbreak of war that even the news that Mt. Vesuvius is in an active state of eruption, fails to arouse that great interest which it did heretofore.

Six years ago when the old volcano began to rumble and threaten, the world stood aghast with the horror of probable consequences. Today the imminence of another eruption is only mentioned casually in the news of the day.

So awful has been the destruction wrought by man and man-made agencies of death that nature's giant cannot rival it.

The comparison is a forceful illustration of the enormity of the disaster now sweeping Europe.

Scientists who make a life study of Mt. Vesuvius and keep in touch as nearly as possible with the moods and temper of the surly old monster, hope that the great internal fires which spring from the interior of the globe somewhere, will die down again, and that the volcano will not add its death-dealing and destructive power to that now being exerted by man in warfare, but they are fearful that an active eruption will come.

The heavy detonations in the interior of the volcano indicate that nature's artillery is moving upward toward the surface.

Will a retreat be sounded before the top of the crater is reached, is the question which hundreds of thousands of Italians who have so far escaped the horrors of war, are asking themselves.

Poetry For Today

THE CANDIDATE'S APPEAL.

I am the one and only "he"
(The signal mark of probity!)
To make the government perfection,
If you elect me next election.

For freedom from the slavish laws
That grind you down to degradation,
Just look at me and end forthwith
The present vile administration.

What if the present office holder
At last election vowed the same?
You must not class a saint like me
With one not worthy of the name.

Your present government is bad!
And everything that is, is wrong!
But vote for me and life will change
To one uninterrupted song!

Think not, to win, I would expose
Another's shameful villany!
But you should vote the right man in;
And no one else is right but Me!

BABYLON AND NINEVEH.

The Incident That Led Sir Henry Layard to Explore Their Ruins.

The first man to undertake extensive and important explorations among the ruins of Babylon and Nineveh was Sir Henry Layard. It was due to his friendship for a young man who had a great fear of seasickness that he was led to begin what was to be his life work. Layard was educated in the law and started for Ceylon to practice his profession.

He was accompanied by another lad, who had a horror of the ocean, and Layard readily agreed when his companion suggested that they make the trip by land across Europe, Asia Minor, Persia and India. It was while on this journey that Layard was inspired with the ambition to delve among the ruins of the ancient cities of Asia.

"When I first beheld the mounds of Nineveh," he wrote, "a great longing came over me to learn what was hidden within them."

He yielded to the desire and largely at his own expense carried on these excavations at Babylon and Nineveh, which were chiefly responsible for the discovery of the lost records and relics of a people who lived 3,000 years ago. Many cities and palaces, including the palace of King Nebuchadnezzar, were unearthed by Layard, and the most valuable treasures in the British museum serve to commemorate his name and fame.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The gabby man is sure a bore.
His mouth should have a clutch,

DEADLY SHRAPNEL.

Good "Man Killers," but Their Effectiveness Is Limited.

Shrapnel, so called after their inventor, the British General Shrapnel, are thin cases of tough steel containing a large number of bullets—in the British artillery 263 and in the French and German 300—with a small bursting charge at the base of the projectile.

The bursting charge breaks the thin steel case, when the bullets sweep forward with the velocity imparted to the projectile by the gun. Shrapnel are regarded as good "man killers," but they are quite ineffective against buildings, where shells are deadly. For the attack of field guns and buildings and for action against troops in trenches most armies employ howitzers, which are short, squat guns that toss their projectiles high in the air, high angle fire.

In the British army every division has fifty-four field guns and eighteen howitzers. These howitzers are of 4.5 inch caliber, firing a shell 4.5 inch in diameter and weighing thirty-five pounds. They have a range of 7,200 yards, which is 1,000 yards greater than the range of the British field gun.

The defect of the howitzer is that its shell is very heavy, and consequently much fewer rounds can be carried than with the field gun. There is no security that a single howitzer shell will do twice the damage of an ordinary field gun shell, though it weighs twice as much.

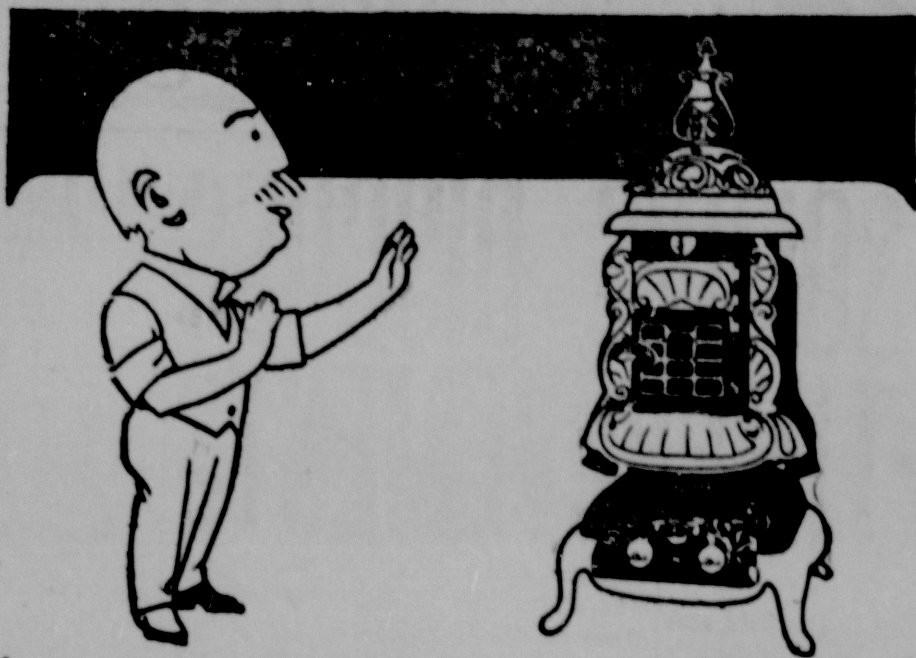

The French do not employ a howitzer in their field artillery. The Germans use a heavy pattern of six inch caliber, firing a shell of about ninety pounds, and a lighter pattern of 4.2 inch caliber.—New York Sun.

Hard to Kill Some Men.

Reports indicate it sometimes takes a lot to kill a modern soldier. Sergeant Fougere of France received eight bullet wounds, a broken arm and other injuries and, although shot in the calf, thigh and ankle, escaped being captured by Germans and limped ten miles to his regiment. Another French soldier received six bullet and three bayonet wounds and is recovering. The French war office estimates only two men are killed out of every 100 hit. The penetration is so clean one soldier did not know he had been hit for three hours, and another bullet went through two soldiers and lodged in a cavalryman's saddle.

CITY SOLONS DISCUSS STREET IMPROVEMENTS

Green Street Left Out in the Cold and $2,000 Allowance For Finishing "Improved" Streets is Cut in Twain

NEGLECTED LEEVE TO BE CONSTRUCTED

Much Argument Arises Over Various Proposals Coming Up, and Regular Session Ends With Small Amount of Business Transacted—Another Session in Near Future.

City Council convened in monthly session Monday night with one member, Councilman Whelpley, absent on account of illness. Few visitors were present. Mayor Charles F. Coffey, Service Director Charles Gerstner, City Engineer Bert Jacobs and City Auditor McFadden attended.

Considerable contention and spirited debate marked the meeting, the dispute arising mainly over the matter of the South Main, Sycamore and Green street assessments, which ended, finally, in the original order of a $2,000 appropriation for the improving of these streets being cut to $1,000 and the resolution being amended to read "for the improvement of Sycamore and Main streets," leaving Green street out of the calculations for the time being.

For some time there has been complaint from the residents along these streets, who refuse to pay their assessments until the streets were properly improved. At the former meeting of council $2,000 was appropriated to apply to improvement in order that the assessments might be collected by the city. When the matter was brought up Monday night the attention of Council was called to the fact that Mayor Coffey had failed to sign the bill. Mayor Coffey was in the chamber and arose in explanation. He stated that he had no intention of vetoing the bill but had withheld his approval because he did not think it advisable to borrow $2,000 for these streets and take the chance of collecting the property assessments. Several agreed with the mayor. Councilman Howell, taking the floor, recalled that he had voted against the measure at its passage and suggested that the allowance of $2,000 be cut to $1,000. Councilman Sheets argued against the issue. He was backed by M. Tracey. The matter of the present high interest rate and the reminder of the difficulty in borrowing the larger amount was advanced. As to the streets, it was believed by those who had looked into the matter that the property holders along South Main and Sycamore streets would readily meet their assessments providing the city repaired the streets. There was some doubt concerning the attitude on Green street so that in the amended resolution Green street was left out. It will be taken up later. The resolution being put to vote carried 4 to 2. Sheets and M. Tracey casting the dissenting votes.

The Washington avenue and Court street paving ordinances were brought up again and both passed their second and third readings. They were then laid on the table at the request of City Engineer Bert Jacobs who stated that the specifications for these streets had not been completed. Engineer Jacobs said he would try and have the specifications ready in two weeks and it is probable that another meeting will be held then. An amendment had been offered to the Washington avenue ordinance to change the reading of the bill, making the limitations "from Court street to the east line of Ely street," instead of "from Court street to the corporation line."

Councilman Veall, addressing the council, stated that in view of the large amount of street paving now being done he would suggest the following of a plan successfully adopted 25 years ago. At that time when certain street improvements were made, he said, a committee of property holders along the improvement were charged to look after it, working in conjunction with the city engineer and service director. He suggested that the plan be revived. This came in for a great deal of argument and was finally argued down without coming to legal process, it being held that the city service director could well handle the work and being thoroughly acquainted with it could secure better results if unhampered and given the entire responsibility.

Councilman Rowe brought up and urged the construction of a proper levy in the vicinity of the new concrete bridge between North street and Lakeview avenue as a protection against high water at that point of Paint creek. Mayor Coffey and others concurred in the suggestion, with the exception of M. Tracey. Rowe made a motion that the service director be instructed to build the levy and it carried with M. Tracey voting against.

City Auditor McFadden's report was read and accepted. Mayor Coffey's report showed $67, taken in fines and licenses in October. An appropriation for $160 to cover election day expenses was made.

CHOLERA SUBSIDING IN FAYETTE COUNTY

The little outbreak of cholera among Fayette swine, occasioned by the cold wet weather of a few weeks ago, has about subsided, and the veterinarians have the situation well in hand.

Had it not been for the prompt attention of the veterinarians, it is more than probable that the outbreak would have been a very serious one, as scores of Fayette county farms are infected with the disease, and the lowering of the normal resistance of swine is all that is necessary to bring about an outbreak. The veterinarians expect to bring about the purity of every farm so that no infection exists.

MAMMOTH VOTE POLLED EARLY

The voting in this county and over the state of Ohio today has been characterized by the magnitude and earliness with which the vote was polled. As soon as the polls were open the voters began to flock in, and in many precincts the noon hour witnessed nearly nine-tenths of the vote in the ballot boxes.

Indications point to a record vote in the city, county and state, and the many workers have been busy for their respective parties, or sides of questions submitted.

Never before has such a large vote been polled so early as it was today, both in the precincts of the city and the precincts of the townships and villages.

The Dry Committee announces that the vote in Fayette county will be surprisingly large in favor of prohibition.

MRS. MARY PALMER DIES VERY SUDDENLY

The deceased was one of the best known women in Wayne township, and leaves a husband and four grown children.

CLINTON CO. FARMER ANSWERS CALL

Word was received Monday of the death of Mr. John Tilton, father of Miss Margaret Tilton and Mr. Frank Tilton, of this city, at his home in New Vienna.

Mr. Tilton was one of the highly respected farmers of Clinton county, and a well known G. A. R. veteran.

His son and daughter had been summoned home by his critical illness and were with him at the final call.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

GERMAN GUN FALLS INTO ENEMY'S HANDS

The siege gun, used by the German artillery in the halloween festivities Saturday night, disappeared during the night, and it was later learned that it was upon a man's veranda in Bloomingburg.

The identity of the captors of the gun was established and a call made for the return of the "weapon". This was done and the joke brought to an end.

Two divorces have been awarded in common pleas court during the past few days.

The first is that of James Wilson against Minnie Wilson, on the grounds of neglect of duty, and the second is that of Lena M. Hidy against Charles D. Hidy, on grounds of extreme cruelty.

BRITTENHAM IS STILL RECOVERING

Clarence Brittenham, the man with the crushed skull, is recovering slowly, but has not regained complete possession of his mental faculties, and may never do so.

He is able to sit up and to talk, but he quickly relapses into a state of uncertainty of speech and thought, and it is believed that part of the brain governing the speech is gone, although the man may eventually recover.

Alonzo Sharp, who was bound over to the grand jury upon a charge of assault with intent to kill, is still in the county jail, having failed to furnish the $500 bond required for his freedom.

WANTS $5,000 IN HEART BALM

The next to the latest sensation in Bainbridge is the suit filed by Miss Grace Hall against Pearl Dwyer, in which she charges the defendant with having broken his promise to marry her, and asks the sum of $5,000 heart balm for the wounding of her affections.

Dwyer is said to have broken his promise upon three different occasions, and finally two weeks ago married Miss Mae Tong, of Bainbridge.

A TRIBUTE.

At a memorial meeting of the Soldiers' Relief Association of Fayette county, held on Friday, October 30, 1914, for the purpose of expressing the sense of the commission on the sudden and unexpected death of our former member and honored comrade, George F. Robinson, the following members were present, H. L. Hadley, E. C. Hamilton and I. N. Rowe.

Upon motion the following resolutions were adopted, and the clerk of the board instructed to send a certified copy to the family of the deceased, and to make this action a part of the records of the association:

"Comrade Robinson entered the service of his country by enlisting in Company M, Second Ohio Volunteer cavalry, October 27, 1862, and was mustered out at Philadelphia on June 9, 1865.

"This remarkable regiment was recruited and organized under the supervision of Hon. B. F. Wade and Hon. John Hutchins in the summer and fall of 1861, serving under Generals Buell, Wright, Hunter, Denver, Schofield, Burnside, Sedgwick, Custer, Sheridan, Mead, Grant and ten other distinguished commanders, serving in five different armies: The Army of the Frontier, the Missouri, the Potomac, the Ohio and the Shenandoah, fighting in ninety-seven battles and engagements, campaigning during the three years in Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, West Virginia, Maryland, Old Virginia and Indian Territory, marching an aggregate distance of twenty-seven thousand miles.

"Sleep on, ye fallen comrades, a victory ye have won; Ye have served the nation's banner, your task has been well done. Rest under wreaths of laurel, by grateful people given; We strew your graves with flowers, the sweetest gift of Heaven."

"Comrade Robinson was a loyal and enthusiastic leader in the Grand Army of the Republic, and had held high positions in the State Encampment of Ohio, and had been repeatedly chosen as commander in his local organization, Hayes Post, No. 92, G. A. R. In his official connection as trustee of the Soldiers' Memorial Building he had been faithful and true from the erection of the building to the furnishing and finishing, and lived to see the marble tablets placed on the walls of the auditorium to the honor of the soldiers and to the pride of the people. And his name, inscribed on one tablet, tells the story of his defense of his country."

"In his relations as a member of the County Soldiers' Relief Commission, he was regular in his attendance at the monthly stated meetings, and his generous heart always beat responsive to the needs of his less fortunate comrades and their widows. In civic affairs of this city George F. Robinson held the implicit confidence of the people, regardless of party affiliations. In the many years of his service as member of the Board of Education, several terms as a member of the City Council, two terms as mayor of the city. These various positions were places of trust, and his faithfulness to duty and his study of the interests of the people is a matter of record, and a page in his history that will redound to his honor and the proud satisfaction of his friends. Such a man can be fully spared from the activities of life in any community, and he will be sadly missed from the fraternal, social, moral and commercial circles of our city, county and state.

"Therefore, resolved, by the Soldiers' Relief Association of Fayette county that we hereby tender to his bereaved children our deepest and most sincere sympathy in their sad loss of a kind and indulgent father. And join with the Grand Army of the Republic and ex-soldiers of the country, with the citizens of Washington Court House, Fayette county, with his personal friends and associates, and with all who came in contact with him, either in commercial or social relations, in paying tribute to his many virtues.

"And unite with them in keeping green the memory of his genial personality, his hearty hand-shake, and his pleasant characteristics. We feel with them that the world is better for having had his life before us as an example worthy of emulation."

CITY SOLONS DISCUSS STREET IMPROVEMENTS

Green Street Left Out in the Cold and $2,000 Allowance For Finishing "Improved" Streets Is Cut in Twain

NEGLECTED LEVEL TO BE CONSTRUCTED

Much Argument Arises Over Various Proposals Coming Up, and Regular Session Ends With Small Amount of Business Transacted—Another Session in Near Future.

City Council convened in monthly session Monday night with one member, Councilman Whelpley, absent on account of illness. Few visitors were present. Mayor Charles F. Coffey, Service Director Charles Gerstner, City Engineer Bert Jacobs and City Auditor McFadden attended.

Considerable contention and spirited debate marked the meeting, the dispute arising mainly over the matter of the South Main, Sycamore and Green street assessments, which ended, finally, in the original order of a $2,000 appropriation for the improving of these streets being cut to $1,000 and the resolution being amended to read "for the improvement of Sycamore and Main streets," leaving Green street out of the calculations for the time being.

For some time there has been complaint from the residents along these streets, who refuse to pay their assessments until the streets were properly improved. At the former meeting of council $2,000 was appropriated to apply to improvement in order that the assessments might be collected by the city. When the matter was brought up Monday night the attention of Council was called to the fact that Mayor Coffey had failed to sign the bill. Mayor Coffey was in the chamber and arose in explanation. He stated that he had no intention of vetoing the bill but had withheld his approval because he did not think it advisable to borrow $2,000 for these streets and take the chance of collecting the property assessments. Several agreed with the mayor. Councilman Howell, taking the floor, recalled that he had voted against the measure at its passage and suggested that the allowance of $2,000 be cut to $1,000. Councilman Sheets argued against the issue. He was backed by M. Tracey. The matter of the present high interest rate and the reminder of the difficulty in borrowing the larger amount was advanced. As to the streets, it was believed by those who had looked into the matter that the property holders along South Main and Sycamore streets would readily meet their assessments providing the city repaired the streets. There was some doubt concerning the attitude on Green street so that in the amended resolution Green street was left out. It will be taken up later. The resolution being put to vote carried 4 to 2, Sheets and M. Tracey casting the dissenting votes.

The Washington avenue and Court street paving ordinances were brought up again and both passed their second and third readings. They were then laid on the table at the request of City Engineer Bert Jacobs who stated that the specifications for these streets had not been completed. Engineer Jacobs said he would try and have the specifications ready in two weeks and it is probable that another meeting will be held then. An amendment had been offered to the Washington avenue ordinance to change the reading of the bill, making the limitations "from Court street to the east line of Ely street," instead of "from Court street to the corporation line."

Councilman Veall, addressing the council, stated that in view of the large amount of street paving now being done he would suggest the following of a plan successfully adopted 25 years ago. At that time when certain street improvements were made, he said, a committee of property holders along the improvement were charged to look after it, working in conjunction with the city engineer and service director. He suggested that the plan be revived. This came in for a great deal of argument and was finally argued down without coming to legal process, it being held that the city service director could well handle the work and being thoroughly acquainted with it could secure better results if unhampered and given the entire responsibility.

Councilman Rowe brought up and urged the construction of a proper levy in the vicinity of the new concrete bridge between North street and Lakeview avenue as a protection against high water at that point of Paint creek. Mayor Coffey and others concurred in the suggestion, with the exception of M. Tracey. Rowe made a motion that the service director be instructed to build the levy and it carried with M. Tracey voting against.

City Auditor McFadden's report was read and accepted. Mayor Coffey's report showed $67, taken in fines and licenses in October. An appropriation for $160 to cover election day expenses was made.

CHOLERA SUBSIDING IN FAYETTE COUNTY

The little outbreak of cholera among Fayette swine, occasioned by the cold wet weather of a few weeks ago, has about subsided, and the veterinarians have the situation well in hand.

Had it not been for the prompt attention of the veterinarians, it is more than probable that the outbreak would have been a very serious one, as scores of Fayette county farms are infected with the disease, and the lowering of the normal resistance of swine is all that is necessary to bring about an outbreak. The veterinarians expect to bring about the purity of every farm so that no infection exists.

MAMMOTH VOTE POLLED EARLY

The voting in this county and over the state of Ohio today has been characterized by the magnitude and earliness with which the vote was polled. As soon as the polls were open the voters began to flock in, and in many precincts the noon hour witnessed nearly nine-tenths of the vote in the ballot boxes.

Indications point to a record vote in the city, county and state, and the many workers have been busy for their respective parties, or sides of questions submitted.

Never before has such a large vote been polled so early as it was today, both in the precincts of the city and the precincts of the townships and villages.

The Dry Committee announces that the vote in Fayette county will be surprisingly large in favor of prohibition.

GERMAN GUN FALLS INTO ENEMY'S HANDS

The siege gun, used by the German artillery in the halloween festivities Saturday night, disappeared during the night, and it was later learned that it was upon a man's veranda in Bloomingburg.

The identity of the captors of the gun was established and a call made for the return of the "weapon". This was done and the joke brought to an end.

The first is that of James Wilson against Minnie Wilson, on the grounds of neglect of duty, and the second is that of Lena M. Hidy against Charles D. Hidy, on grounds of extreme cruelty.

BRITTENHAM IS STILL RECOVERING

Clarence Brittenham, the man with the crushed skull, is recovering slowly, but has not regained complete possession of his mental faculties, and may never do so.

He is able to sit up and to talk, but he quickly relapses into a state of uncertainty of speech and thought, and it is believed that part of the brain governing the speech is gone, although the man may eventually recover.

WANTS $5,000 IN HEART BALM

A TRIBUTE.

At a memorial meeting of the Soldiers' Relief Association of Fayette county, held on Friday, October 30, 1914, for the purpose of expressing the sense of the commission on the sudden and unexpected death of our former member and honored comrade, George F. Robinson, the following members were present, H. L. Hadley, E. C. Hamilton and I. N. Rowe.

Upon motion the following resolutions were adopted, and the clerk of the board instructed to send a certified copy to the family of the deceased, and to make this action a part of the records of the association:

"Comrade Robinson entered the service of his country by enlisting in Company M, Second Ohio Volunteer cavalry, October 27, 1862, and was mustered out at Philadelphia on June 9, 1865.

"This remarkable regiment was recruited and organized under the supervision of Hon. B. F. Wade and Hon. ### In Social Circles

The beautiful country home of Mrs. Caroline Glass, near Sabina, was the scene of a gay party Saturday, October 31st, when the Misses Glass entertained with an elaborate noon-day luncheon, at which the engagement and coming marriage of the daughter Martha Ellen and Mr. Dan Franklin Mark of Washington C. H., was announced.

The color scheme, pink and white, was effectively employed throughout the spacious rooms.

The bride-elect led the way to the dining-room where candles with pink shades lent a soft glow. The table was a picture with its snowy linen cut glass and gleaming silver. A large French basket, filled with shell pink carnations and ferns formed an attractive centerpiece. A huge pink bell suspended from the ceiling with festoons of smilax completed the decorations. Covers were laid for eighteen. The favors were tiny Colonial baskets filled with Bride's beads. Miss Bess Blue was the first to discover that the hearts attached to the handles of the baskets bore the names of the bride and groom-elect, and date of coming marriage. Miss Gertrude Hunt arose to the occasion with an impromptu speech and a pretty toast to the bride.

Miss Glass, a beautiful golden-haired girl was wearing pink batiste and cluny lace. She is an accomplished musician and very popular with Sabina's younger set.

Mr. Mark is a prominent young business man of Washington C. H.

The guests included Misses Vesta Sparks, Mary Spurgeon, Jessie Blakeley, Mary Key, Florence Sparks, Naomi Butterfield, Edna Peele, Stella Hall, Fay Hall, Bertha Fent, of Sabina. Gertrude Hunt, of Wilmington; Mrs. George Sheridan, of Bowersville; Mrs. Ewing Fichthorn and Miss Bess Blue, of South Plymouth; Miss Lillian Williams, of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hughey entertained with a family dinner Monday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Murry, of Washington D. C. Shaggy yellow chrysanthemums were in decoration and an elaborate menu was served.

The Daughters of American Revolution, between sixty and seventy, had a most delightful meeting on Monday afternoon at the handsome home of Mrs. Emma Crawford, with hostesses assisting Mesdames Fullerton Briggs, Stutson, Tanzey, Barnett and the Misses Briggs, Brownell, Persinger and Pine. After the business opening of the chapter the regent, Mrs. Emma Morris, called on Mrs. Eliza Waddle for report of the state convention of the D. A. R., held last week in Oberlin. The report was of much interest, Mrs. Waddell touching on the salient points.

The sixteenth annual conference of D. A. R.'s was opened by a public meeting in Warner hall, one of the college buildings, the mayor of Oberlin giving a special welcome to which Mrs. Kite and Mrs. Kent, state regent, responded. Mrs. Minor, vice-president of Connecticut, made a fine address on "Patriotic Education". She said the history of Connecticut and Ohio are inseparably interwoven by ties of blood and sympathy. Connecticut is doing much in D. A. R. work. For one thing the Daughters are restoring and maintaining the old Ellsworth property which has many historical connections, and is filled with old historic furniture. Other states have done this same kind of work and it is a great thing that the D. A. R. has so expanded into organizations of dignity and purpose with a membership of over 100,000, covering every state in the Union.

A special address was given by Prof. Hutchings on "Abraham Lincoln". Mrs. Truesdale, of Fremont, spoke on "The Conservation of the Home". She claimed that the careless boy of today is the ignorant voter of tomorrow. The care and correct training of aliens coming to our shores is one of the most important things we have to face.

There are 58 chapters in Ohio and 4000 members.

A brilliant reception and musicale was given one evening and a feature of one afternoon was the unveiling of a beautiful tablet to mark the crossing of the Harrison trail.

London was the place named for the meeting in October, 1915.

Mrs. A. C. Brant, of Canton was elected state regent, and Mrs. Harris, of Cleveland, vice regent.

Miss Ogle presented invitations by cards for the Thanksgiving carnival, which the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. gives November 17 and 18, for the benefit of the Boys' clubs. She also announced the rummage sale of the Kitchen Garden, which bespeaks the aid of every woman.

Following this, Mrs. Frank Carpenter gave in her inimitable way a fetching little play of the time of Louis XI of France, called, "If I Were a King" and "Love is King."

Miss Mabel Briggs gave beautiful rendition to music which was in effective harmony with the play, "Traumerei", "The Triumphal March" and other numbers.

The guests were most appreciative of the charming little play and the gifted reader; also of the music.

A delicious collation was served during the social hour.

Mrs. Jas. Gibney, of Perry, Ia., was an out-of-town guest.

Mrs. R. S. Quinn entertained the young men of her Sunday School class at an elaborate six o'clock dinner, of exquisite appointments Tuesday evening.

Pink and white chrysanthemums, roses and smilax in artistic arrangement formed the decoration and the same colors were carried out in the courses. Covers were laid for twelve.

The report was of much interest, Mrs. Waddell touching on the salient points.

The sixteenth annual conference of D. A. R.'s was opened by a public meeting in Warner hall, one of the college buildings, the mayor of Oberlin giving a special welcome to which Mrs. Kite and Mrs. Kent, state regent, responded. Mrs. Minor, vice-president of Connecticut, made a fine address on "Patriotic Education". She said the history of Connecticut and Ohio are inseparably interwoven by ties of blood and sympathy. Connecticut is doing much in D. A. R. work. For one thing the Daughters are restoring and maintaining the old Ellsworth property which has many historical connections, and is filled with old historic furniture. Other states have done this same kind of work and it is a great thing that the D. A. R. has so expanded into organizations of dignity and purpose with a membership of over 100,000, covering every state in the Union.

A special address was given by Prof. Hutchings on "Abraham Lincoln". Mrs. Truesdale, of Fremont, spoke on "The Conservation of the Home". She claimed that the careless boy of today is the ignorant voter of tomorrow. The care and correct training of aliens coming to our shores is one of the most important things we have to face.

There are 58 chapters in Ohio and 4000 members.

A brilliant reception and musicale was given one evening and a feature of one afternoon was the unveiling of a beautiful tablet to mark the crossing of the harbor to mark the crossing of the harbor to mark the crossing of the harbor.

London was the place named for the meeting in October, 1915.

Mrs. A. C. Brant, of Canton was elected state regent, and Mrs. Harris, of Cleveland, vice regent.

Miss Ogle presented, invitations by cards for the Thanksgiving carnival, which the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. gives November 17 and 18, for the benefit of the Boys' clubs. She also announced the rummage sale of the Kitchen Garden, which bespeaks the aid of every woman.

Following this, Mrs. Frank Carpenter gave in her inimitable way a fetching little play of the time of Louis XI of France, called, "If I Were a King" and "Love is King."

Miss Mabel Briggs gave beautiful rendition to music which was in effective harmony with the play, "Traumerel", "The Triumphal March" and other numbers.

The guests were most appreciative of the charming little play and the gifted reader; also of the music.

A delicious collation was served during the social hour.

Mrs. Jas. Gibney, of Perry, Ia., was an out-of-town guest.

Mrs. R. S. Quinn entertained the young men of her Sunday School class at an elaborate six o'clock dinner, of exquisite appointments Tuesday evening.

Pink and white chrysanthemums, roses and smilax in artistic arrangement formed the decoration and the same colors were carried out in the courses. Covers were laid for twelve.

OHIO AFFECTED

Washington, Nov. 3.—The quarantine of live stock on account of outbreaks of foot and mouth disease has been extended to cover the entire area of the states of Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania. The Union stockyards in Chicago is included. In addition, restrictions have been placed upon shipments of stock from Ohio. The provisions of this quarantine are practically the same as those previously announced for a few counties in Michigan and Indiana. No cattle, sheep or swine can be shipped from these states in interstate commerce, and all fodder and animal products of every sort which might possibly convey the disease must be thoroughly disinfected. The quarantined states are not only prohibited from shipping cattle to uninfected areas, but they can not even send shipments of stock from one infected area to another.

TURKEY ACTIVE

Paris, Nov. 3.—The grand vizier of Turkey has apologized for recent events in the Black sea, in which Odessa and Sebastopol were bombarded by the cruisers Goeben and Breslau, manned by German officers and crews.

London, Nov. 3.—The Turkish ambassador to Great Britain, Tewfik Pasha, has been handed his passports. He left for Berlin. The ambassadors of the triple entente powers received their passports in Constantinople Sunday and the British ambassador immediately departed for Bulgaria on a special train. The French and Russian envoys last Monday.

Fighting on sea and land Monday shows how meaningless have been the protestations of Turkish officials. It is reported from Athens and Rome that a British-French squadron sank two Turkish warships in the harbor of Tchesme, near Smyrna. The Turks renewed the bombardment of Odessa and Theodosia. Turkish armies are massing near Beyrut and on the Caucasian frontier, and two Turkish army corps are nearing the frontier of Egypt, and the report persists that between 2,000 to 3,000 Bedouins have already crossed the border. Turkey is sending mullahs to preach a holy war in Asia and Africa.

Sebastopol Shelled.

A dispatch from Petrograd contained the news that the German cruiser Goeben, renamed Sultan Selim by the Turks, led the bombardment of the forts of Sebastopol, which began Sunday. The Sultan Selim attacked with eleven-inch rifles, but the fire of the forts was so vigorous that the warship was injured and compelled to withdraw.

Rome learns that Turkey is rushing preparations for war, and that fleet and army are being maneuvered for rapid offensive operations. Turkey is strengthening the defenses of the Bosphorus and is laying mines everywhere in threatened waters, especially along the coast of Smyrna. Roman newspapers are informed Turkey has massed an army of 400,000 on the Caucasian border and that 300,000 soldiers are encamped at Belrut and other ports for transport to the Sinai peninsula. The ports where Turkey has concentrated troops are blockaded by British and French warships. Bedouins, depended upon by Turkey to supplement the strength of regular soldiers, are raiding over the border of Egypt.

Turkey will attempt to invade Egypt, to blockade the Suez canal and to stir up a revolt among the Mohammedan subjects of Great Britain in India and Egypt. It is this last contingency which Great Britain regards with most concern.

MORE BRITISH STEAMERS SUNK

Para, Brazil, Nov. 3.—The German steamer Asuncion has landed here the passengers and crews of the British steamers Vandyck, Hurstdale and Glanton, which were captured and sunk by the German cruiser Karlsruhe in the South Atlantic.

The passengers and crew of the Vandyck, which was bound for New York, were taken off and transferred to a steamer which was being conveyed by the Karlsruhe. They were landed at Para. The Vandyck had on board a large cargo of Argentine beef consigned to various packing houses in New York and the west.

ENGLISH SEIZE COPPER

ATTACKS ARE LESS VIOLENT

Paris, Nov. 3.—The government's official communique says: "Between the North sea and the Olse the attacks made by the Germans throughout the day have been less violent. In Belgium we have advanced to the south of Dixmude and to the south of Ghelubelt, and we have maintained all our other positions. In the region of the Aisne a violent offensive movement on the part of the Germans between Fraye-en-Lannois and Vailly failed completely."

GERMAN FORCES DRIVEN BACK

Petrograd, Nov. 3.—The war office has just given out the following statement:

"On the eastern Prussian frontier our troops have repulsed the German attacks. At Vladislavoff we have chased the enemy from the eastern border to the forest of Rominten, advancing on the offensive to the north of Lake Raigorod, beyond the Vistula. Our troops continued without hindrance. Only in the region of Opatow did the Austrians resist us with very large forces, but they were thrown back beyond the river Opatow."

GERMAN OFFICERS ARRESTED BY U. S.

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—Four German officers from the gunboat Geier, now in Honolulu, were arrested on board the Pacific Mail liner Korean when the ship came into port here, by Captain Holworth of the United States cruiser Cleveland, and taken aboard the Cleveland as military prisoners. They are charged with violating the neutrality laws of the United States by coming into this harbor when not under parole.

A Prehistoric Lake.

One of the most interesting remnants of a prehistoric lake in the United States is that now known as Estancia valley, which lies south of Santa Fe and east of Albuquerque, N. M. From examination of the deposits in this section geologists are of the opinion that this lake existed at the same time as Lake Bonneville, in Utah, and other ancient lakes of the arid west during the cold, humid glacial period. The theory of the existence of an ancient lake in the valley is based on the presence of shore features and lake sediments. Sea cliffs, terraces, beaches, beach ridges, spits and bars are found on all sides of the lake flat at altitudes between 6,100 and 6,200 feet above sea level.—Argonaut.

Modern Uhlands.

The uhlands are a distinctive corps. The name is by no means distinctly German. A body of uhlands was formed for the French army by Marshal Saxe. They were introduced into the Prussian service in 1740, and forty years later the Austrians also had a corps of uhlands—light cavalry armed with lance. The modern uhlan may be classed with the heavy cavalry.—London Opinion.

WILL ATTACK LEGALITY OF INDICTMENTS

Twenty-One Millionaires Charged With Conspiracy.

New York, Nov. 3.—Twenty-one millionaires were indicted in the United States district court here, accused of violating the Sherman anti-trust law, as a result of the New Haven railroad investigation.

Included in the number are all of the directors of the New Haven railway system who were in charge of the operations of that corporation at the time that it was amalgamating into its control the various transportation systems of New England.

The specific charge against the accused is that they combined and conspired together with numerous other persons to monopolize commerce, consisting of the transportation business. The charge of conspiracy is a criminal offense and under section II of the Sherman act, under which the indictments were found, the maximum punishment may be a fine of $5,000 or one year's imprisonment, or both.

The indictment enumerated 160 corporations whose business, it was charged, was to be monopolized. Included in the number are all of the millionaires who have been affiliated with the New Haven by the late J. P. Morgan and President Charles S. Mellen.

The indicted millionaires are: William Rockefeller, George MacCulloch Miller, Charles F. Brooker, William Skinner, D. Newton Barney, Robert W. Taft, James S. Elton, James S. Hemingway, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Charles M. Pratt, A. Heaton Robertson, Fred S. Brewster, Henry K. McKarg, Edward D. Robbins, Alexander Cochran, John L. Billard, George F. Baker, Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, Theodore N. Vail, Edward Milligan, Francis T. Maxwell.

Judge Foster fixed bail at $5,000 for each of the accused. The first thing to be done is expected to be the filing of demurrers to the legality of the indictments and also a demand for permission to view the minutes of the grand jury.

PLATURIA RELEASED

Washington, Nov. 3.—One of the cases causing difficulties between the British and United States governments regarding maritime trade with neutral countries was disposed of with the release by Great Britain of the Standard Oil tanker Platuria, which had been detained at Stornaway, Scotland. The Platuria was bound for Denmark with a cargo of American oil when she was seized by British cruisers and taken into the Scottish port. The statement was made that the release followed the receipt by the British of assurance from the Danish government that oil on board the Platuria would not be re-exported to the German naval base at Kiel or to any other point in Germany.

Who Wants an Island?

Sunday Island, a verdant tract of seven miles by five, in the Kermadec group of the south Pacific, is to be abandoned. The thirteen persons who have been living a Crusoe-like life there have been driven to desperation by loneliness, rats, volcanic rumblings and other afflictions, and the New Zealand government is to bring the party back to civilization. While oranges, bananas and tobacco thrive on the island, there are no coconuts, and the crops which the handful of islanders try to plant are often destroyed by the small Pacific rats which infest the place, and a surviving volcano frequently gives the whole island a shiver.

SOLDIERS AS TARGETS.

How the Troops Appear to the Enemy at Various Distances.

Army officers are chuckling over some of the thrilling stories being sent out by war correspondents abroad, who are at or near the front. One of the best, according to gossip here, was told of troops aiming rifles at the enemy a mile distant, and using the buttons of the coats of the enemy's troopers for targets.

An interesting statement of target distances in actual warfare, compiled from data of army experiments, is as follows: All parts of a man's body can be distinctly seen at 100 yards, including the general lines of his face, slight movements of the body and the minutest details of uniform. At 200 yards the outlines of the face become confused, and rows of buttons look like stripes. At 300 yards the buttons are invisible. At 400 yards the faces are pinhead dots, and movements of arms and legs are still visible. At 600 yards all details disappear, although with clear light the files may be counted. At 800 yards the men cannot be counted and individual movements become indistinguishable. At 1,000 yards a line of men resembles a broad line.—Kansas City Star.

ATTACKS ARE LESS VIOLENT

Paris, Nov. 3.—The government's official communique says: "Between the North sea and the Oise the attacks made by the Germans throughout the day have been less violent. In Belgium we have advanced to the south of Dixmude and to the south of Ghelubelt, and we have maintained all our other positions. In the region of the Aisne a violent offensive movement on the part of the Germans between Fraye-en-Lannois and Vailly failed completely."

GERMAN FORCES DRIVEN BACK

Petrograd, Nov. 3.—The war office has just given out the following statement:

"On the eastern Prussian frontier our troops have repulsed the German attacks. At Vladislavoff we have chased the enemy from the eastern border to the forest of Rominten, advancing on the offensive to the north of Lake Raigorod, beyond the Vistula. Our troops continued without hindrance. Only in the region of Opatoff did the Austrians resist us with very large forces, but they were thrown back beyond the river Opatowka."

GERMAN OFFICERS ARRESTED BY U. S.

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—Four German officers from the gunboat Geier, now in Honolulu, were arrested on board the Pacific Mail liner Korean when the ship came into port here, by Captain Holworth of the United States cruiser Cleveland, and taken aboard the Cleveland as military prisoners. They are charged with violating the neutrality laws of the United States by coming into this harbor when not under parole.

A Prehistoric Lake.

One of the most interesting remnants of a prehistoric lake in the United States is that now known as Estancia valley, which lies south of Santa Fe and east of Albuquerque, N. M. From examination of the deposits in this section geologists are of the opinion that this lake existed at the same time as Lake Bonneville, in Utah, and other ancient lakes of the arid west during the cold, humid glacial period. The theory of the existence of an ancient lake in the valley is based on the presence of shore features and lake sediments. Sea cliffs, terraces, benches, bench ridges, spits and bars are found on all sides of the lake flat at altitudes between 6,100 and 6,200 feet above sea level.—Argonaut.

Modern Uhlands.

The uhlands are a distinctive corps. The name is by no means distinctly German. A body of uhlands was formed for the French army by Marshal Saxe. They were introduced into the Prussian service in 1740, and forty years later the Austrians also had a corps of uhlands—light cavalry armed with lance. The modern uhlan may be classed with the heavy cavalry.—London Opinion.

WILL ATTACK LEGALITY OF INDICTMENTS

Twenty-One Millionaires Charged With Conspiracy.

New York, Nov. 3.—Twenty-one millionaires were indicted in the United States district court here, accused of violating the Sherman anti-trust law, as a result of the New Haven railroad investigation.

Included in the number are all of the directors of the New Haven railway system who were in charge of the operations of that corporation at the time that it was amalgamating into its control the various transportation systems of New England.

The specific charge against the accused is that they combined and conspired together with numerous other persons to monopolize commerce, consisting of the transportation business. The charge of conspiracy is a criminal offense and under section II of the Sherman act, under which the indictments were found, the maximum punishment may be a fine of $5,000 or one year's imprisonment, or both.

The indictment enumerated 160 corporations whose business, it was charged, was to be monopolized. Included in the number are all of the millionaires who have been affiliated with the New Haven by the late J. P. Morgan and President Charles S. Mellen.

The indicted millionaires are: William Rockefeller, George MacCulloch Miller, Charles F. Brooker, William Skinner, D. Newton Barney, Robert W. Taft, James S. Elton, James S. Hemingway, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Charles M. Pratt, A. Heaton Robertson, Fred S. Brewster, Henry K. McHarg, Edward D. Robbins, Alexander Cochran, John L. Billard, George F. Baker, Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, Theodore N. Vail, Edward Milligan, Francis T. Maxwell.

Judge Foster fixed bail at $5,000 for each of the accused. The first thing to be done is expected to be the filing of demurrers to the legality of the indictments and also a demand for permission to view the minutes of the grand jury.

PLATURIA RELEASED

Washington, Nov. 3.—One of the cases causing difficulties between the British and United States governments regarding maritime trade with neutral countries was disposed of with the release by Great Britain of the Standard Oil tanker Platuria, which had been detained at Stornaway, Scotland. The Platuria was bound for Denmark with a cargo of American oil when she was seized by British cruisers and taken into the Scottish port. The statement was made that the release followed the receipt by the British of assurance from the Danish government that oil on board the Platuria would not be re-exported to the German naval base at Kiel or to any other point in Germany.

Who Wants an Island?

Sunday Island, a verdant tract of seven miles by five, in the Kermadec group of the south Pacific, is to be abandoned. The thirteen persons who have been living a Crusoe-like life there have been driven to desperation by loneliness, rats, volcanic rumblings and other afflictions, and the New Zealand government is to bring the party back to civilization. While oranges, bananas and tobacco thrive on the island, there are no coconuts, and the crops which the handful of islanders try to plant are often destroyed by the small Pacific rats which infest the place, and a surviving volcano frequently gives the whole island a shiver.

SOLDIERS AS TARGETS.

How the Troops Appear to the Enemy at Various Distances.

Army officers are chuckling over some of the thrilling stories being sent out by war correspondents abroad, who are at or near the front. One of the best, according to gossip here, was told of troops aiming rifles at the enemy a mile distant, and using the buttons of the coats of the enemy's troopers for targets.

An interesting statement of target distances in actual warfare, compiled from data of army experiments, is as follows: All parts of a man's body can be distinctly seen at 100 yards, including the general lines of his face, slight movements of the body and the minutest details of uniform. At 200 yards the outlines of the face become confused, and rows of buttons look like stripes. At 300 yards the buttons are invisible. At 400 yards the faces are pinhead dots, and movements of arms and legs are still visible. At 600 yards all details disappear, although with clear light the files may be counted. At 800 yards the men cannot be counted and individual movements become indistinguishable. At 1,000 yards a line of men resembles a broad line.—Kansas City Star.

Bowser, He Sports

He Is Let In on a Sure Thing at the Races.

By M. QUAD.
Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It was so unusual for Mr. Bowser to return home at noon that Mrs. Bowser met him with considerable anxiety and asked if any calamity had happened.

"Not a calamity, my dear," he blandly replied. "I've just come to ask if you want to go up to the races this afternoon."

"You don't mean horse races?" she gasped.

"Of course I do. I'll give you half an hour to get ready."

"But I can't go. I've agreed to go shopping with Mrs. Greene this afternoon. What on earth has got into you that you are now going to do something you haven't done in ten years?"

"Not in fifteen, but I'm going today, and I'll dress up a bit."

"Is this a special occasion?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"It's special with me—that is, I propose to make $3,000 between now and sundown, and you can count on a present of at least $250."

"You don't mean to tell me that you are going to bet on the horses? You can't mean that, when you are almost a deacon of the church and won't drink beer or bet on an election."

"Look here, little woman," said Mr. Bowser, as he laughed and chuckled her under the chin. "I've had a good thing flung at me and I don't propose to miss it. I'm no gambler, but there's nothing out of the way in taking a little flyer on a horse race once in a while. If I can make $3,000 out of $100, I'd be a fool not to do it."

"But how on earth can you do it?" she demanded.

"That's what I'm going to tell you, if you'll cool down a little. You have read or heard that the best horse does not always win the race. In other words, there's jockeying going on. A horse which seems to have no show at all will often come in ahead. When such an event has been planned for a few individuals get the tip. You know what a tip is, don't you?"

"They are told about it."

"That's it. They are told about it, and they quietly invest their money on the horse. The horse which is going to win today is a 30 to 1 shot."

"How strangely you talk!" she whispered.

"It's the old sport in me coming to the surface," he explained. "Thirty to one means that if I put $100 on the horse and he wins I get $3,000. One hasn't got to be an old sport to see what a haul it is."

"It's a highway robbery!"

"It's nothing of the sort. It's all in the racing. I've got $100 to spare, and I'm going to play the tip."

STILL LINGERING AT THE TURN.

"Woman, I don't want to be talked to in that manner!" shouted Mr. Bowser, as he began to saw the air with his arm, and the cat flew under the bed with a yowl. "I'm going to do what thousands of others do. It's no worse than Wall street or a grab bag at a church affair. You know nothing of the world, and your objections don't count for a cent. I am going to take advantage of the tip. It was given to only two of us outsiders."

"Very well," said Mrs. Bowser in tones of resignation. "I don't know anything about tips or 30 to 1, or jockeying, but you'll come home $100 out of pocket instead of $3,000 in. You may think yourself an old sport, but you'll discover your mistake. That's all, and don't blame me."

"Blame you for what? Because I win $3,000?"

"Because you lose your $100!"

"Oh, I lose, will I? Bet you 50 to 1 I don't. It's no use your getting your back up for nothing. It's my first fling for fifteen years, and it won't make me a fool. I probably shan't play another race for ten years. Have dinner an hour late."

Nothing further was said. When Mr. Bowser reached the corner he picked up the other man who had been tipped, and they boarded the car for the race track. When they reached it, he quickly took a seat in the grand stand and let the other man place the bets. It was two hours before that particular race was run. Mr. Bowser heard men scoffing at the 30 to 1 horse and declaring that he couldn't gallop forty rods, but he smiled in a knowing way and pitied their ignorance. In one instance he was about to give a man the tip and enable him to carry home $1,000 to his needy family, but the man spoiled it all by growling:

"So you think you are an old sport and know all about horses, eh? Well, I don't believe you can tell a horse from a mule!"

It really hurt Mr. Bowser's feelings to be doubted as an old sport. Would anybody but an old sport have put up a clean $100 on a horse race? Didn't that bet mark him as a dead game? Hadn't he studied the program till he could name every horse in the race, and give the colors worn by the jockeys? Instead of giving the man the tip he put on an air of dignified reserve and had nothing further to say. He hadn't thought of taking a drink in connection with the races, but as all the other old sports appeared to be sipping, he defiantly called for and drank a bottle of pop scented with lemon.

When the 30 to 1 race was called Mr. Bowser and his friend were quiet and bland and complacent. They smiled at each other as the horses came out. They poked each other in the ribs as several false starts were made. When the horses finally got off, the two stood up and clapped each other on the back and hurrahed their loudest. The horse which came in first amid a cloud of dust was not the 30 to 1; neither was the second nor the third, nor the fourth. When nine horses had galloped in their tip was still lingering down at the turn and evidently delayed by circumstances over which he had no control.

Mr. Bowser had lost $100. He was stunned for a moment. Then he began to shout "Cheer!" and "Fake!" and declared that it was a skin game. He was given about a minute, and then the police got hold of him. Under such circumstances they hustle a man. Mr. Bowser was hustled. He lost his hat, had his collar and necktie pulled off and his coat ripped, and as he reached the gate he was given a highland fling that rolled him through the burdocks into a ditch. It was an hour after dark when he reached home. He had walked five miles in order to have room to swear. He had left the house an old sport in his Sunday clothes. He returned to it a dilapidated victim of misplaced confidence. The cat and Mrs. Bowser were in the hall to welcome him, but he desired no welcome. He looked at the cat in a way to make her legs wobble, and he looked at Mrs. Bowser as an Indian with a scalping knife regards his victim.

"Well, you are home," she finally said.

"Yes—I am—home!" he slowly and huskily replied, nodding his head at every word.

"And you'll have dinner?"

No answer.

"It's waiting."

No answer.

"Did you fall off the car coming home?"

"Up—go up!" shouted Mr. Bowser, as he pointed up the stairs.

Mrs. Bowser and the cat ascended. Then they heard him pick up the hall tree and slam it down, breaking two umbrellas by pounding on the wall, and after smashing the stand and fardiner and kicking the palm sky high he passed into the back parlor and flung himself down on the lounge. The old sport had been beaten.

Bowser, He Sports

He Is Let In on a Sure Thing at the Races.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It was so unusual for Mr. Bowser to return home at noon that Mrs. Bowser met him with considerable anxiety and asked if any calamity had happened.

"Not a calamity, my dear," he blandly replied. "I've just come to ask if you want to go up to the races this afternoon."

"You don't mean horse races?" she gasped.

"Of course I do. I'll give you half an hour to get ready."

"But I can't go. I've agreed to go shopping with Mrs. Greene this afternoon. What on earth has got into you that you are now going to do something you haven't done in ten years?"

"Not in fifteen, but I'm going today, and I'll dress up a bit."

"Is this a special occasion?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"It's special with me—that is, I propose to make $3,000 between now and sundown, and you can count on a present of at least $250."

"You don't mean to tell me that you are going to bet on the horses? You can't mean that, when you are almost a deacon of the church and won't drink beer or bet on an election."

"Look here, little woman," said Mr. Bowser, as he laughed and chuckled her under the chin. "I've had a good thing flung at me and I don't propose to miss it. I'm no gambler, but there's nothing out of the way in taking a little flyer on a horse race once in a while. If I can make $3,000 out of $100, I'd be a fool not to do it."

"But how on earth can you do it?" she demanded.

"That's what I'm going to tell you, if you'll cool down a little. You have read or heard that the best horse does not always win the race. In other words, there's jockeying going on. A horse which seems to have no show at all will often come in ahead. When such an event has been planned for a few individuals get the tip. You know what a tip is, don't you?"

"They are told about it."

"That's it. They are told about it, and they quietly invest their money on the horse. The horse which is going to win today is a 30 to 1 shot."

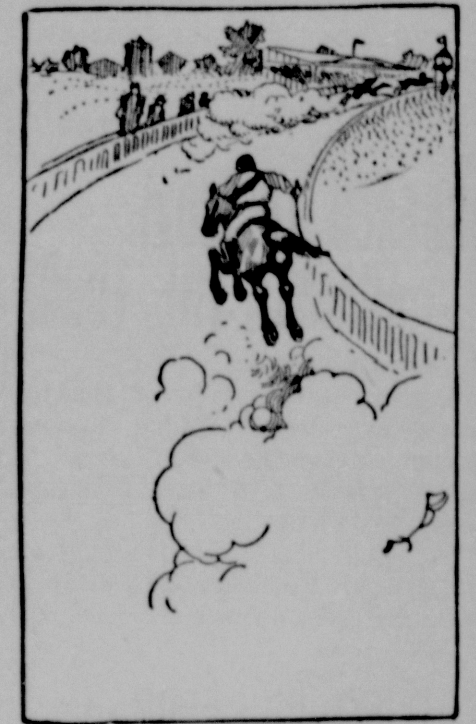

"How strangely you talk!" she whispered.

"It's the old sport in me coming to the surface," he explained. "Thirty to one means that if I put $100 on the horse and he wins I get $3,000. One hasn't got to be an old sport to see what a haul it is."

"It's a highway robbery!"

"It's nothing of the sort. It's all in the racing. I've got $100 to spare, and I'm going to play the tip."

"A hundred dollars! You'll lose it as sure as your name is Bowser, and you'll deserve to! If they fix for any horse to win it's underhand business. The idea of your lending yourself to any such scheme! I wouldn't have believed it if fifty people had come and told me!"

STILL LINGERING AT THE TURN.

"Oh, I lose, will I? Bet you 50 to 1 I don't. It's no use your getting your back up for nothing. It's my first flier for fifteen years, and it won't make me a fool. I probably shan't play another race for ten years. Have dinner an hour late."

BUILDING OF PETROGRAD.

Peter the Great's Ruthless Methods in Erecting the Capital.

Most disadvantageously situated of all the capitals of Europe—indeed, of the world—Petrograd is a monument of the pride and energy of Peter the Great. He wanted a European capital in order to signalize and immortalize his conquests. In 1703, when the first foundations of the city were laid on the marshy island on the delta of the Neva, at the eastern end of the gulf of Finland, the surrounding territory had even then not been entirely conquered.

Peter went to work with his usual energy and with his usual ruthlessness to create a capital in what was worse than a desert. He himself superintended the building of the city and gave the directions of the details to half a dozen lieutenants. The work was pushed with almost incredible rapidity, so that by 1712 sufficient advance had been made to permit the transfer of the imperial family from Moscow.

One measure ordered by Peter was that thousands of peasants must settle in or near the new capital. A special tax was put on his empire to meet the expenses of building the city. Such a small difficulty as the scarcity of masons was nothing to a man like Peter the Great. He simply forbade the erection of stone buildings anywhere else in the empire until Petrograd was finished.—New York Times.

MILITARY COWARDICE.

A Sample of Its Punishment During the Thirty Years' War.

Punishment for cowardice in the German army at the time of the Thirty Years' war was so severe as to be ferocious. In the year 1642 the Swedish General Torstensson stormed Leipzig. A force under the command of the Grand Duke Leopold gave him battle before the gates of the city, but during the engagement the Madonnen regiment became suddenly panic-stricken and fled.

Punishment immediately followed. When the regiment had again assembled six other regiments surrounded it and tried it by court martial in the open field. The verdict was that the colonel and the captains should die by the sword and that every tenth man among the noncommissioned officers and men should be hanged.

The stern verdict was carried out to the letter, except that at the request of Leopold the men were shot instead of hanged. Colonel George Madlonische was beheaded after he had sought in vain for a pardon. The survivors were consigned to quarters with other commands, and the regiment never regained its name or former prestige. In those days there was no alternative but to be brave. Cowardice meant either death or everlasting disgrace.—Youth's Companion.

Poetic Justice.

A couple in a certain village, each the parent of six children, had meted out to them a kind of poetic justice in which they failed to see the poetry.

The woman, a widow, pleading that she had no home and was therefore unable to care for her children, induced the local authorities to admit them to an orphan asylum. The man, a widower, pleading he had no house-keeper and therefore no one to care for his children, induced the authorities to admit his six also. Thereupon, being freed from all incumbrances, these two married.

All went well for a few months, when the authorities, learning of the situation, promptly dispatched the twelve children back to their parents, and the woman no longer able to represent herself as homeless or the man as without a housekeeper, they were forced to receive them.

One of Hook's Puns.

Theodore Hook, the inveterate punster, could pun with gaiety upon matters that touched his own pocket. He enlivened the usually prosaic and unwelcome duty of paying his taxes by a word of advice to his neighbors to do likewise—which it is to be hoped the worthy Mr. Winter, the collector, found of some assistance:

Here comes Mr. Winter, inspector of taxes. I advise you to pay him whatever he asks. I advise you to pay him without any flummery. For though his name's Winter, his actions are summary!

THE RATE OF EXCHANGE.

Its Influence on the Stock Exchange and Our Gold Supply.

I presume that many readers pay little attention to "the rate of exchange" and have no idea that it is an important factor bearing on the question of the opening of the New York Stock Exchange. When the old world wants our gold, as it does now, it bids for it and exchange rates go up.

We are a debtor nation and must pay our debts abroad in gold. The warring nations all need gold, and to get it are willing to sacrifice their enormous holdings of American securities. If the Stock Exchange were to reopen foreign holders would liquidate their securities and the drain on our gold resources would be heavy.

On the other hand, foreign nations need our cotton, wheat, corn, meats, and now especially are calling upon us for extraordinary supplies in the way of clothing, shoes and products that they usually produce at home. For these commodities the foreigners must of course pay us in gold. If we can sell more to them than they can sell to us the golden stream will flow inward and not outward.

Whenever conditions are equalized exchange will go back to a normal basis and then the Stock Exchange will be opened and we can meet all the demands that may be made upon us; hence the reason why the rate of exchange has such an important bearing on the opening of the stock market.—Leslie's

Hartman Theater

COLUMBUS, WEEK OF NOV. 9TH.

Grand opera at popular prices and in English, is the very unusual combination which the New York Grand Opera Company will offer at the Hartman theater, Columbus, Monday evening, November 9th. This company is composed of stars gathered from every good opera organization in the country and is said to be the best of its kind ever sent on tour.

An enormous all-star revival of "THE PRINCE OF PILSEN", best of all musical comedies by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders, will play an engagement at the Hartman theatre, Columbus, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 10th and 11th, with matinee Wednesday. No other musical comedy ever attained quite the popularity enjoyed by "The Prince of Pilsen" and it is doubtful if another ever will. The company playing this revival is headed by John W. Ransone, the original "Hans Wagner" and the music critics of the cities just visited by the organization pronounce it the best ever gathered for a musical comedy. With an augmented orchestra and the notably strong chorus of the presentation, Luders' fine score is certain to be given with delightful effect.

An unusual dramatic treat is in store for Hartman theater, Columbus, patrons on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 12, 13, and 14th with matinee Saturday, when Michael Morton's sensational melodrama "THE YELLOW TICKET" will be the attraction. This is a story of life in modern Russia and Mr. Norton has gone straight to the heart of things for his material. He has laid the action of his play in St. Petersburg, and has taken actual conditions of life for his drama. "The Yellow Ticket", that terrible passport which the government issues through the secret police as a license to fallen women, gives the play its name, and the possession of the Yellow Ticket by a young Jewish woman of good reputation, who is forced to apply for it in order to have the right to leave the "Pale of Settlement" to which, because of her faith, she is restricted—furnishes the plot. ### ANTIQUEY OF MANKIND.

Geikie Places It at Between 250,000 and 500,000 Years.

In his work, "The Antiquity of Man in Europe," Professor James Geikie of Edinburgh university declares his belief that man has inhabited Europe between 250,000 and 500,000 years. All such estimates are based on geological facts, such as the rate at which sediment is deposited or at which stalagmites grow, that are very hard to determine with any accuracy, but no one now doubts that man is far older than men of science originally supposed him to be.

"When we reflect," says Professor Geikie, "on the many geographical changes that man has witnessed—the submergence and re-elevation of enormous tracts, the erosion of valleys and general lowering of the surface by denudation, when we consider that he has lived through a succession of stu-

Hartman Theater

COLUMBUS, WEEK OF NOV. 9TH.

Grand opera at popular prices and in English, is the very unusual combination which the New York Grand Opera Company will offer at the Hartman theater, Columbus, Monday evening, November 9th. This company is composed of stars gathered from every good opera organization in the country and is said to be the best of its kind ever sent on tour.

An enormous all-star revival of "THE PRINCE OF PILSEN", best of all musical comedies by Frank Pix-ley and Gustav Luders, will play an engagement at the Hartman theatre,
Columbus, Tuesday and Wednesday,
November 10th and 11th, with matinee Wednesday. No other musical comedy ever attained quite the popularity enjoyed by "The Prince of Pilsen" and it is doubtful if another ever will. The company playing this revival is headed by John W. Ransone, the original "Hans Wagner" and the music critics of the cities just visited by the organization pronounce it the best ever gathered for a musical comedy. With an augmented orchestra and the notably strong chorus of the presentation, Luders' fine score is certain to be given with delightful effect.

An unusual dramatic treat is in store for Hartman theater, Columbus, patrons on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 12, 13, and 14th with matinee Saturday, when Michael Morton's sensational melodrama
"THE YELLOW TICKET" will be the attraction. This is a story of life in modern Russia and Mr. Norton has gone straight to the heart of things for his material. He has laid the action of his play in St. Petersburg.

and has taken actual conditions of life for his drama. "The Yellow the government issues through the secret police as a license to fallen women, gives the play its name, and

THE ELEMENT OF CHANCE.
Human progress might be otherwise defined as human success in minimizing the element of chance. In science there is substitution of exactitude for the primitive accidents of the rule of thumb, just as in philosophy and morals, truth and untruth, right and wrong, are being unwashed from their veils of uncertainty and set clearly in opposition to each other. In other words, the gambling spirit in life is less and less countenanced, and gaming, once fashionable, is now taboo, even in the most innocent forms.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

ANTIQUITY OF MANKIND.
Belkie Places It at Between 250,000 and 500,000 Years.

In his work, "The Antiquity of Man in Europe," Professor James Belkie of Edinburgh university declares his belief that man has inhabited Europe between 250,000 and 500,000 years.

All such estimates are based on geological facts, such as the rate at which sediment is deposited or at which stalagmites grow, that are very hard to determine with any accuracy, but no one now doubts that man is far older than men of science originally supposed him to be.

"When we reflect," says Professor Belkie, "on the many geographical changes that man has witnessed—the submergence and re-elevation of enormous tracts, the erosion of valleys and general lowering of the surface by de-nudation, when we consider that he has lived through a succession of stu-
